DAUGHTER OF CZAR IS COMING

Grand Duchess Titania Escapes From Siberia Through A Fake Marriage.

SIMPLY MISS ROMANOFF

Doesn't Care Whether Her Father Ever Gets Back the Muscovite Throne.

New York, Nov. 26.—Miss Titania Nicolaevna Romanoff, second daughter of Nicholas Romanoff, deposed emperor of Russia has escaped from Siberia, through a fictitious marriage to a son of a former chamberlain of the emperor, and is now on her way to the United States, chaperoned by an English woman, according to information made public here by persons connected with the Russian Civilian Relief.

The former grand duchess, who is 22, made her escape from Tobolsk, the present home of the exiled emperor, Harbin in Manchuria and thence to Japan, where passage was taken on a steamship for the Pacific coast.

The New York officers of the Russian Civilian Relief, including Daniel Frohman, Ivan Narodny and Dr. Thos. Darlington, have been informed the young woman will arrive in New York in December to play a prominent part in the work of the recently formed organization.

WILL BE IN U. S. A. YEAR.

The news bureau of the Russian postoffice department announced that Miss Romanoff intends to remain one year in this country and while in New York her guardian and companion will be Mrs. Margaret Barry Carver, of Denver.

Ivan Narodny told how Miss Romanoff succeeded in leaving Russia, saying the news came from the emperor's former second chamberlain, named Frederick, to whose son she was married, as this would give the former grand duchess greater freedom of movement of Russia.

"Miss Romanoff does not care," a statement issued said, "whether her father of the Romanoff dynasty ever regains the throne, but she is very much concerned about a strong democratic government, or rather a United States of Russia. She will try to explain to the American people that they should not desert Russia and leave her to the socialistic adventurers, but help her to get united and to work for the allies."

Counsel for defendants believe, if the verdict is upheld by the United States Supreme Court to which the case will be appealed if necessary, it will mean the dissolution and reorganization of every prominent labor organization in the United States, owing to its far-reaching effect.

RUSSIANS QUIT FIGHTING FRONT

Trotzky Says 'His Hope Lies in German Populace Accepting Bolshevik Offer.

PLANS NO SEPARATE PACT

If Allied Governments Do Not Yield, Their People Will, Russian Declares.

Petrograd, Nov. 26.—In connection with the order to Gen. Dukhonin, commander-in-chief of the Russian army, to open negotiations for an armistice with the enemy commanders, the Associated Press interviewed Leon Trotsky, the Bolshevik, foreign minister. Trotsky emphatically declared that the soldiers' and workmen's government was against a separate peace with Germany. He voiced his conviction that Russia's initiative in offering peace would be supported by the proletariat of all nations, allied or belligerent, which will make impossible a continuation of the war even if the governments do not accept the offer.

"What are the plans and intentions of your government?" the correspondent inquired.

"The plans and intentions of the government are outlined in the program of the Bolshevik party, to which the all-Russian congress of soldiers' and workmen's delegates entrusted the formation of a soldiers' and workmen's government," the foreign minister answered. "First, there will be the immediate publication of all secret treaties and the abolition of secret diplomacy.

LANDS FOR PEASANTS; FACTORIES FOR NATION.

"Second, an offer of an immediate armistice on all fronts for the conclusion of a democratic peace. Third, the transfer of all lands to the peasants. Fourth, the establishment of state control of industries through the medium of organized workmen and employees; the nationalization of the most important branches of industries.

"Fifth, the delivery of all authority to local soldiers' and workmen's deputies.

"Six, the convocation of a constituent assembly—which will introduce its reforms through the medium of the soldiers' and workmen's deputies, and not through the old bureaucracy—on an appointed date.

"The offer of an immediate peace already has been made. The decree transferring the lands to the peasants has been issued. Power has been assumed by the soldiers' and workmen's deputies in most of the important places."

"What will the government do if Russia's allies refuse to enter into negotiations for peace?" the correspondent asked.

"If the allied governments do not support the policy of a democratic peace," Trotsky replied, "the allied peoples will support us against their government. Our international policy is calculated not for capitalistic diplomacy, but for the support of the working masses."

"Does the government think a separate peace with Germany is possible in the existing circumstances?"

"We are against a separate peace with Germany; we are for a universal peace with the European nations."

"What will the government do if Germany refuses to negotiate for peace—will it continue the war?" was the next question.

RELY ON GERMAN POPULACE.

"We rely on the German army and the working classes to make a continuation of the war impossible," Trotsky replied. "If, however, our frank and honest efforts for peace meet no response, we would declare a revolution against German imperialism, we would mobilize all our forces, confiscate large food supplies and prosecute the war as energetically as we did the revolution. But we

FORTY GERMANS TAKEN

Achievement of The American Destroyers Told By Daniels.

Washington, Nov. 26.—A German submarine captured recently by two American destroyers was sunk to the bottom by members of her crew opening cocks below while their shipmates stood on deck with hands raised in signal of surrender. All of the crew were taken prisoners.

One of the Germans was drowned while being transferred to a destroyer and another died. The latter was buried with military honors.

Sec. Daniels announced the capture and sinking of the submarine in a formal statement which made no mention of prisoners nor of the reason for the boat sinking. The details leaked out at the department later, but the secretary would neither confirm nor deny them, saying he had issued the statement in agreement with the British admiralty and could not add to it.

There was a report in naval circles that approximately forty men, including five officers, were taken off the submarine. If this were true, it was pointed out, the vessel undoubtedly was one of the largest of the cruiser type known authentically to be operated by the Germans.

have every ground to think that our offer of peace will make impossible a continuation of the war on all fronts."

"What is the country's attitude toward the government change?"

"All the bourgeoisie is against us. The greater part of the intellectuals are against us or hesitating, awaiting a final outcome.

"The working class is wholly with us. The army is with us. The peasants, with the exception of exploiters, are with us.

"The soldiers and workmen's government is a government of working men, soldiers and peasants against the capitalists and land owners."

"Is it true that the government will publish the secret treaties?" was the final question.

"Yes," the foreign minister answered.

KILLED BY BOMB IN MILWAUKEE

Box Taken to The Police Station Explodes When Examined.

Milwaukee, Nov. 26.—Ten persons are known to have been killed, a number injured and several missing as a result of a bomb explosion in central police station Saturday night.

The bomb was taken to the station by an Italian, who said he discovered it in the basement of the Madonna Del Pomkei Catholic church in the Italian district. The Italian was met near the station by Detective Bart Maloney, escorting him to the station, placed the bomb, which was enclosed in a black box on a table in the waiting room while he took the man into the office of Police Lieut. Flood.

Detectives were on the second floor of the building at the time responding to roll call. When they came down the stairway and noticed the black box, one picked it up to examine it. The bomb then exploded.

Colored Girl Died Saturday Evening From a Fractured Skull.

A negro school girl named Ollie Cunningham, adopted daughter of Dennis Cunningham, who lives in the country, was found lying beside the railroad track at First street just after L. & N. train No. 51 came in Saturday evening. A negro boy stated that he saw her walking towards the crossing just before the train passed. No one saw the accident. The girl's skull was fractured. She died in two hours, after being taken to the home of Jack Tandy where she boarded. She was 15 years old. She had been down town and was returning to her home on East First street.

JENNIE STUART HOSPITAL

Several New Patients Operative and Medical.

The Jennie Stuart Hospital was very busy last week, with a number of new patients, medical and operative. Among those who have been there some time and who are improving are Manning Brown, Esq. G. E. Baynham, Mrs. J. E. Nall, Princeton, and Mrs. Warren Ray, of Earlington. G. C. Croft, Fred Gaddis, Graham, Ky., and Mrs. D. D. Henry, Earlington, Ky., operated upon recently, are doing nicely.

Master Cecil Trotter, of Dawson, was operated upon Monday and Mr. J. W. Robertson Wednesday. Mr. Robertson returned home Saturday. Mrs. Joe McCarroll has returned to the Hospital after a treatment in Louisville.

Mrs. W. C. Haydon, of Wallonia, an operative patient, is very low.

After hard fighting, in which the troops came into hand-to-hand fighting with varying results, Field Marshal Haig's forces now are in possession of the town of Bourlon and the greater portion of the Bourlon wood, west of Cambrai, giving them a dominating position over the much fought for railroad center and the surrounding country.

English, Welsh and Scottish battalions, aided by the cavalry now dismounted, encompassed the defeat of the Germans, who had concentrated fresh reserves—men of extreme valor—to face the British in their do-or-die effort to win the positions, which mean so much in the capture of Cambrai, with its highways leading in all directions and on which Field Marshal von Hindenburg is dependent for support.

Little else except the gaining of this town and the wood had had a place in the strategy of the commander-in-chief of the British forces, which last week placed his forces west and southwest of Cambrai. Ever since the first attack the Germans have tenaciously disputed every inch of ground, realizing that, with the fall of Bourlon and the wooded heights, their tenure of Cambrai would be seriously menaced. Several times previously the British had gained footholds in both the town and the wood, but each time under vicious counter-attacks were compelled to relinquish them.

The northeasterly portion of the wood apparently now is the sole remaining part of it that is still in German hands, and being only three and a half miles distant from Cambrai, the Germans are doing their utmost to hold it, and even to drive back the British, who have gained a footing there.

The army of the German crown prince has not given up its efforts to overcome the success of the French troops last week northwest of Rheims, where the gradual incursions into the German lines are threatening Laon. Here the Germans have made two violent attacks, but their efforts have brought them, as has been the rule recently, nothing more than repulse and the additional loss of numerous men. Similarly in the region of Verdun the Germans have been worsted in attacks against General Petain's front.

For the first time in several weeks there has been activity on the northern Russian front, and, notwithstanding the political conditions in Petrograd and other parts of the country, the Russians are holding their positions against the Germans.

Near Jacobstadt, the German artillery opened a strong bombardment against the Russians, who replied in turn. To the south and also on the Rumanian front there has been a festival of activity, both from the trenches and in the nature of reconnaissance.

The troops of the first Italian army on the Asiago plateau repulsed several fierce Austro-German attacks and counter-attacks with success, the Italian war office announced.

In the Italian theater the troops of General Diaz are more than holding their own against the savage attacks of the Austro-Germans from the region of lake Garda eastward to the upper reaches of the Piave river.

A Problem Solved

By PAULINE D. EDWARDS

(Copyright, 1917, Western Newspaper Union.)

Madge Clark was the only child of a man who had accumulated a large fortune. Hoarding money had become a second nature to him and now as an old man he had fixed plans for both daughter and money. She must marry and have heirs to inherit his wealth. He would make a will tying up the property to her and her children, the husband to have absolutely no claim upon it.

His one stumbling block was, that Madge was very hard to manage. He gave her perfect liberty in her selection of a husband but since she was not in love or the man she wanted failed to propose, she did not make a choice of any.

She was scolded by her father till she became desperate and decided upon Jack Fisher, who she knew was really in love with her and not with the money.

She allowed him to be devoted to her for some time and her father was feeling quite encouraged, when suddenly Fisher stopped coming to the house except occasionally, and the old man was made positively ill by Madge's disinclination to select a husband.

Hope sprang up again in the old man when Tom Morris, a chum of Jack Fisher's, became a devoted slave to his daughter.

Deep in her own heart Madge knew she had made a choice. The man was a rising young lawyer, Robert Morris, fascinating and considered a good sport among the young people. Madge often met him socially, and had motored with him occasionally.

Not being an "advanced woman" she could not plead her own cause, and yet here was the solution by which she might be satisfied with a husband and her father restored to health.

Finally in a state of desperation she went to the office of Robert Morris, described to him the predicament she was in and asked him as a lawyer to tell her some way in which she could be married to either Jack or Tom, by which, if her father recovered, she could have the marriage easily annulled.

The young lawyer assumed a very grave look and assured her that he would look up the matter and report to her within a few days. Just before she left the office he asked:

"Is there anyone whom you prefer to the two men you have mentioned?" A vivid blush covered the girl's face at the unexpected question, and with a startled look in her eyes she made a hasty exit.

More than a week passed and Madge heard nothing from her lawyer.

A day or two later the doctor reported to her that her father's mind must be relieved of worry or he would not answer for the results.

"I think he will recover if you will gratify his wish and marry."

After the doctor's departure, Madge determined to consult the young lawyer once more.

She told him she must decide between her two suitors at once.

"I have looked the matter up and advise you to have what is called a mock marriage," he said.

Madge looked very grave for a while, there had been a dim hope in her mind that he might solve the problem by proposing to her himself. Then she said: "Suppose neither of the men will consent to such a plan?"

"No harm to try them."

"If either one consent will you be present at the ceremony?"

"Decidedly I will be there, I must see to it that you fall into no legal error."

At this moment a thought flashed into Madge's mind. She told Mr. Morris to be at her house at eight o'clock next evening.

At the appointed hour his motor car appeared before the house and he was shown into a reception room where he was soon confronted by Madge.

"Where is the groom?" he asked.

"I sent for both grooms this afternoon, explained to them my predicament and begged either one to help me out, but both seemed much offended."

"Then as your lawyer," said Morris, "I am bound to help you out, I have longed to settle the problem for you by offering myself, but one fears in these days, where much wealth is involved, to be looked upon as a fortune hunter. If you believe me not to be that Madge, but loving you for your own sweet self we might have a real ceremony instead of the mock one."

Her happy look and smile were sufficient answer.

An hour later a clergyman arrived and the party went up to the invalid's room where Madge announced to her father that she was to marry Mr. Morris.

"But, Madge, I understood your choice was between the other two young men?"

Madge flushed. "Well father, that was because Mr. Morris didn't ask me."

"She came to my office and asked me," said Robert.

"Well, well," said Mr. Clark, "I don't care who did the asking, you two just kneel down here and have the knot tied, then I'll take a nap."

In the course of a month he was able to attend to his business again, and when the first grandson arrived settled a large portion of his fortune on him.

KEPT HER AWAKE

The Terrible Pains in Back and Sides. Cardui Gave Relief.

Marksville, La.—Mrs. Alice Johnson, of this place, writes: "For one year I suffered with an awful misery in my back and sides. My left side was hurting me all the time. The misery was something awful."

"I could not do anything, not even sleep at night. I kept me awake most of the night. I took different medicines, but nothing did me any good or relieved me until I took Cardui."

"I was not able to do any of my work for one year and I got worse all the time, was confined to my bed off and on. I got so bad with my back that when I stooped down I was not able to straighten up again. I decided I would try Cardui. By time I had taken the entire bottle I was feeling pretty good and could straighten up and my pains were nearly all gone."

"I shall always praise Cardui. I continued taking it until I was strong and well." If you suffer from pains due to female complaints, Cardui may be just what you need. Thousands of women who once suffered in this way now praise Cardui for their present good health. Give it a trial. NC-133

LUCK HAS FAITH IN NAME

Automobile Driver, Hurt in Bad Spill, Asserts He Can Justly Claim Charmed Life.

There is much in a name, according to the physicians at a hospital where Anton Luck, a twenty-four-year-old farmer, was taken following an automobile accident, says an exchange.

Luck, who was returning home with a party of five other young men, was driving his automobile and had turned out when he realized he could not pass another automobile approaching from the opposite direction in time.

He drove his car up the bank at the side of the road, threw himself and his five friends out of the car and when he reached the hospital he announced he could not be hurt, as he told the physicians he bore a charmed name.

Although the physicians said Luck had received a few score scratches and was severely bruised, no bones were broken, and the man seemed to be all he believed himself to be as far as the name went. His friends, who were shaken up considerably, were able to go to their homes.

NEW ANTISEPTIC IS USED

French Soldiers Supplied With Powder Intended for Immediate Application to Wounds.

As an antiseptic for immediate use upon wounds, Chief Surgeon Vincent of the French army, inventor of one of the best systems of antityphoid vaccination, is distributing to the soldiers little jars of a powder based upon Dr. Alexis Carrel's hypochlorite antiseptic fluid, with glass tubes through which to blow the powder on the wound.

Doctor Vincent's invention is chloride of lime mixed with boric acid, both in powder form. Its application causes no pain, even if nerves be exposed, only a sense of warmth. The powder dissolves very slowly, so that its antiseptic action is prolonged for several hours.

According to La Nature, treatment with this powder has proved so successful that Doctor Vincent is instructing all the regimental surgeons in its use.

RATIONS FOR ORPHAN COLTS

Bottle and Nipple Will Be Found Cheapest and Most Satisfactory Means of Giving Milk.

Raising orphan colts is a hard task which requires time and patience. Cow's milk is the usual substitute for mare's milk. Allowance must be made for the fact that cow's milk is lower in per cent of protein, fat, and ash than mare's milk, while the latter is lower in per cent of water and milk sugar.

At first a bottle and nipple probably will be found the cheapest and most satisfactory means of inducing the colt to take the milk. The milk should always be warmed to body temperature before feeding.

Add enough warm water to a tablespoonful of sugar to dissolve it, then add from three to five tablespoonfuls of lime water and enough milk to make a pint. Feed one-fourth of this mixture every hour for a few days, gradually lengthening the intervals and increasing the amount given at a feed as the colt grows older.

When the colt is three or four weeks old the sugar in the milk may be discontinued. At three months the colt should be put on a ration of all the sweet milk it will drink three times a day.

If the colt scours, cut down on the amount of milk and give two to four ounces of a mixture of two parts castor oil to one part sweet oil.

WORKING HORSE IN SUMMER

Large Number of Animals Lost Each Year Through Lack of Care and From Excessive Heat.

It no doubt would be one of the greatest surprises that we have had for some time, were we to realize the large number of horses that are lost each year from the lack of care and from the heat; the time is here again when we must watch our horses carefully so that they may work safely and to the best advantage for us during the long hot days of summer.

The horse that will stand the hot weather well is the one that has been well groomed and cared for, you must feed your horses well if you want them to work well and if you want to get the most from your feed you must keep them clean and comfortable. The horse that is working hard during the hot weather should be watered at least four or five times each day, and every hour or hour and a half would be still better.

"Frozen Music."

The saying "frozen music," as applied to architecture, has often been credited to Mme. de Staël. In "Corinne" she says that "the sight of such a building (St. Peter's) is the ceaseless changeless melody." The dictionaries of quotations usually trace it to the German, Schelling. Eckermann, in his "Conversations," represents Goethe as claiming it.

Childish Imagination.

The joy that the real fairies and elves and little people give to children, the delight they can find in imagining a world where anything is possible, where there are no boundaries of facts, where all is beautiful and always surprising, is hard to gauge because we are so remote from it. But it is very real to them and is a starting point for other more wonderful and more instructive tales, because it is so easy to grasp and it has such an unadulterated appeal to the imagination of a very young child.—Exchange.

ROAD BUILDING

GRAVELED ROADS ARE CHEAP
Can Be Built and Satisfactorily Maintained at a Less Cost Than Other Types.

By E. B. HOPKINS, State Agricultural College, Fort Collins, Colo.
I have heard considerable discussion lately concerning the policy of our state highway commission in constructing the kind of roads it has decided upon, and it is often argued that the only type of road is the so-called permanent road, the one that needs no maintenance. If one will take a pencil and do a little figuring, he can easily convince himself that the policy of the state highway commission is the correct one. Let us consider first of all the expensive type of road construction, such as concrete, or the best grade of macadam. This type of road will cost approximately $10,000 per mile, and let us suppose that the cost of construction is met by issuing 20-year 4 1/2 per cent bonds. The annual expense on account of this first cost would be about $750 per mile. And these roads will need some maintenance, possibly not much over $50 per mile per year. This brings the total cost up to about $800 annually per mile for the expensive or so-called permanent type of road.

Now take a well-constructed gravel road and the cost for this road will run about $4,000 per mile for construction, figuring again on a basis of 20-year 4 1/2 per cent bonds and the annual account for first cost will be about $210 per mile. The cost for maintaining these roads, if properly done, runs up pretty high, and it can be well done with an expenditure of about $240 per mile per year.

This makes a total annual cost then for the surfaced road of approximately $550 annually per mile. A comparison of these two annual costs shows $250 per mile per year in favor of the cheaper roads.

MONEY SPENT ON HIGHWAYS

Over $300,000,000 Expended for Construction and Maintenance in United States in 1916.

More than $300,000,000 was spent on highway construction and maintenance in the United States in 1916. Of this amount 16 Southern states spent approximately $52,000,000. The state of California has voted $15,000,000 to be spent in perfecting the state highway system and not a single county failed to give the empowering measure a majority. Ohio is talking of a $50,000,000 highway bond issue and the state of Illinois will put to its voters at the 1918 election the question of issuing $60,000,000 in highway bonds, the interest and retiring fund for which is to be provided for by an increase in the motor vehicle registration fees.

EXPENSE OF IMPROVED ROAD

Manifest Advantage, as Well as Necessity for Good Roads Seems to Be Educating People.

Within very recent memory the expense of good roads has been bitterly opposed by farmers. The increasing tax rate, due to many causes, has been viewed with the greatest alarm. Within the last year, the manifest advantage, as well as the actual necessity, of better rural highways seems to be gradually educating the public to the viewpoint that good roads are an accompaniment to the changing times in the agricultural world. The only question now is whether or not, with all the vast sums expended for road improvement, we can get good roads soon enough.

Work Drag After Rains.
There are many times when a day's work can be spared on the road. After heavy rains the road may need certain repairs or improvements when the overseer is not ready to call out the hands. Why not individual farmers donate a day's work on the road at such times?

Joy Ride to Town.
A trip to town now to lay in the winter supply of necessities, is a joy ride compared to what that same trip will be when the roads get muddy.

HOMESICK

By HILDA MORRIS.

Christine had come to Shelbyville from the city to be a substitute teacher in the township high school. She had been there only a month, but already the country air had begun to work wonders with her pale cheeks and hollow eyes.

"If only it weren't so lonesome!" she thought, as she walked a country road one bright, windy Saturday afternoon. But just then she heard some one calling.

"Hi there!" a man's voice shouted.

"Hi there, Miss Gray!" It was Richard Harding, greeting her in the local fashion. Christine stood and waited as he came striding toward her, a fine, strapping young man, clad in farmer's overalls and a flannel shirt.

"Are you taking a walk?" he asked as he caught up with her. His voice had the easy modulations of an educated man. He was a graduate of an eastern college.

"Yes, I'm going through your cemetery. It's so quaint! I'm only used to crowded city cemeteries that reach for blocks and blocks. Tell me, are all the people in this town related?"

Richard laughed. "Very nearly. The Bullits are related to the Emmets and the Emmets to the Hardings and the Hardings to the Bullits again. We're all kin somehow."

"All but me," said the girl, laughing a little wistfully. "It must seem queer to have so many relations."

Richard did not appear to have heard her remark. He was looking ahead at the big square red brick farmhouse where he lived with his mother and sister. His mother, a sun-bonnet on her head, was cutting tulips from the rows, that bordered the garden walk. She straightened up as they approached, and came to the gate.

"Howdy!" she said cordially. "It's right cool for an April day, isn't it? Have you been walking, Miss Gray? Well, do come in and have a cup of tea. I made some cinnamon cakes this morning that must be eaten."

Christine hesitated. "It isn't five o'clock yet," said Mrs. Harding, royally sweeping aside the girl's unspoken objections. Richard was holding the gate open, so almost before she knew it Christine found herself in the big square sitting-room of the Harding homestead.

She had not been in a private home of this size for years and years, not since her childhood days and before long ago years of furnished rooms. The house gave her rather an awesome impression of vastness and elegance. It had been solidly built for posterity by a forebear from New England. Its furniture was mid-Victorian.

"Have you always lived in the city?" Miss Lottie Harding asked in her thin voice. Miss Lottie was an "old maid" who spent her years in making endless yards of tutting.

"Since I was two," said Christine. "Are your parents living?" pursued Miss Lottie, to whom family was one's most interesting attribute.

"No," answered Christine. This put a somber period on the conversation, broken only when Mrs. Harding brought in the tea.

In spite of herself the girl presently began to feel the homelike warmth of the place. When she left, stepping out into the damp spring dusk, it seemed as though the chill wind struck her with redoubled force. She shivered, and hurried back to her dingy room in the village hotel.

The next day Christine met Richard Harding on the corner by the post office.

"Can't you take a drive?" he called eagerly. "My team's just over yonder."

The girl perked her pretty head as though considering. "Why, perhaps," she conceded, "for a little while."

Presently they were riding off down a winding road bordered with dogwood and the picturesque flowering Judas tree.

"I'm going home next week," she announced, as calmly as though her heart were not beating furiously.

"Home?" he queried.

"Back to the city, where it isn't so lonesome. I only came to substitute for a month, anyway, and I'm not used to the country. It's too quiet for me."

"I suppose it is," Richard assented, letting the reins drop loosely. "I suppose you couldn't stand it here. But I've something to ask you, Christine. If I should be willing to come to the city and live your way—give up this quiet country life—would you marry me, Christine?"

"Leave here!" cried the girl incredulously. "Why, Richard, I—I like you best here. You belong here. Oh, Richard," she breathed. "I was so homesick! I was going to leave because I could not stand it to see homes and fireplaces and mothers all about me."

"Well," he answered joyously, "you needn't ever be homesick again. You have me, all right!"

This Little Chap Is Never "Dosed" For Colds

The Hymans Now Use the "External" Treatment for Croup and Cold Troubles

MR. PAUL S. HYMAN, of 438 E. Washington Street, Chambersburg, Pa., is the father of this fine baby boy. Sometime ago Mr. Hyman tried the Southern method of treating colds externally—Vick's VapoRub Salve, and was so delighted with the results that he has given us permission to reprint his letter as follows:

"I had a very bad cold on my chest, and coughed very hard. I rubbed Vick's VapoRub on my chest for about five or six times and the results were wonderful. Also, I have a fifteen months old baby boy who had a very bad cold in his head. My wife simply rubbed some on his nose and forehead, and the cold was loosened in no time at all. We have used a great many other remedies, but yours is best so far."

Vick's VapoRub is quicker and better than internal medicines for cold troubles and is particularly recommended for children, as it does not disturb their digestion. The heat of the body releases a soothing pine tar vapor that is inhaled with each breath, and, in addition, VapoRub absorbs thru the skin, taking out the tightness and soreness. Mothers will find it a "true Bodyguard for the home". Three sizes, 25c, 50c or $1.00.

BUMPER CROP OF CORN GROWN

Oats, Potatoes, Rice, Sugar Beets and Tobacco Also Big.

Washington, Nov. 26.—Dumper world crops of corn, oats, potatoes, rice, sugar beets and tobacco for this year are shown by estimates compiled at the International Institute of Agriculture at Rome, made public by the department of agriculture. Wheat, rye, barley and flaxseed, however, have fallen below the five-year average production from 1911 to 1915.

The production of seventeen countries, not including the central powers, will be 1,868,000,000 bushels, 85.6 per cent of the five-year average.

Corn raised will amount to 3,312,000,000 bushels, which is 14.6 per cent greater than the average production for the last five years. Other crops are estimated as follows:

Rye—147,000,000 bushels; 92 per cent.

Barley—587,000,000 bushels; 96 per cent.

Oats—2,682,000,000 bushels; 11.39 per cent.

Rice—70,000,000 bushels; 115.5 per cent.

Flaxseed—38,000,000 bushels; 69.8 per cent.

Potatoes—719,000,000 bushels; 112.4 per cent.

Sugar beets—10,000,000 short tons; 106.6 per cent.

Tobacco—1,186,000,000 pounds; 120.5 per cent.

Wives Both Killed.

Vincennes, Nov. 26.—Mrs. John W. Emison was killed instantly and Mrs. James Wade Emison died one hour later from injuries, as the result of a fast eastbound B. & O. passenger train striking an auto in which they and their husbands were riding Sunday afternoon.

The First Thanksgiving.

The first fixed and official day of Thanksgiving was held in the year 1665. In the old public records of the court of Connecticut we find the following order which the court issued on October 12, 1665, appointing a day of general thanksgiving.

"This court hath appointed a solemn day of Thanksgiving to be kept throughout this colony on the last Wednesday of November, to return praise to God for His great mercy to us in the continuation of our liberties and privileges both civil and ecclesiastic, and for our peace and preventing those troubles that we feared by foreign enemies and for the blessings in the fruits of the earth and the general health of the plantation."

It will be noted that the appointed day was Wednesday instead of Thursday, as we now celebrate. The spelling is odd in many cases.

Telephones May Be Merged.

For 40,810 against, 25,401. This the vote in ninety-one out of 120 counties on the constitutional amendment permitting the merger of telephone systems. Retrenchment Inaugurated.

Fifty-eight alleged useless jobs were abolished by the Louisville Board of Public Works and the names of as many supervisors were dropped from the payroll. The examination will be open only to male citizens who are actually domiciled in the territory of a postoffice in the county and who meet the other requirements set forth in Form 1977. THANKSGIVING "Baby Mine" Brings PIE SALE.

At Miss Fannie Rogers' Millinery Store Wednesday, Nov. 28, for the benefit of the Caskey school. Buy your Thanksgiving pies from us.

The first comedy offering of Goldwyn Pictures, Margaret Mayo's screaming farce, "Baby Mine," which will be shown Friday and Saturday at the Tabernacle, introduces a new star in motion pictures. She is Madge Kennedy, the famous comedienne of "Twin Beds," "Fair and Warner" and other stage productions that have been big successes.

Miss Kennedy plays the role of Zoie in the picture presentation of the comedy, which in stage form had a run of nearly two seasons in New York.

Zoie is a light-hearted bride whose yearning for suppers and theatres leads her uncompromising young husband to abandon her. Her scheme to get him back furnishes the situations around which the comedy revolves. After he has been away for some months, Zoie causes his return with an announcement that a baby boy has come to the household. There is no such thing, but Zoie proposes to get one from a children's home.

But Alfred, the husband, played by Frank Morgan, gets home sooner than expected. There is no baby on hand, and Jimmy, Alfred's friend (John Cumberland) who is brought into the plot by Zoie, steals a baby from the foundling home.

The mother of the stolen child is soon in pursuit of her baby, so while Alfred is rejoicing over the arrival of an heir, it becomes necessary for Jimmie to get another baby. He "borrows" one of the washwoman's twins and, the first baby not having been returned, Alfred is told that he is the father of twins. The resulting complications make all the fun.

Davis Obelisk Now 88 Feet
From the Ground.

Work on the 351-foot obelisk, being erected as the chief feature of Jefferson Davis Memorial Park at Fairview, has been discontinued until next spring. The shaft is being made of reinforced concrete and the weather is now so cold further concrete work is impossible.

The obelisk is now eighty-eight feet high and Gen. Bennett H. Young, of Louisville, president of the Memorial Park Association, figures that this is three-fifths of the job. The solid concrete foundations and extra thick basic walls more than offset the height yet to be attained. Gen. Young visited the park Friday and expressed his satisfaction with the work. Erection of the obelisk will be resumed in the spring and will, it is hoped, be completed by the fall of next year. Contractor Gregg, of Louisville, is doing the work.

All Men Injured On Battlefield Are Treated Alike By British Ambulance

A life's a life, and a man's a man, on the battlefields of Europe, whether he be friend or foe. If he has been injured and is suffering, the color of his uniform makes no difference to the British and French ambulance men. This battlefield picture shows a British Padre giving water to a wounded Tommy in back of the trenches at Menin Road. Note the hole in the helmet through which the injury was inflicted. In this same battle many Germans were cared for by British ambulance men in the same tender manner in which this man is being handled. A German soldier can be seen on the stretcher immediately in back of the group in the foreground of the picture.

Leaders of Russian Revolt in Petrograd

After the revolution in Russia and the establishment of the Kerensky government, opposing elements began to marshal their forces. Among the leaders were the present Prime Minister, Nikolai Lenine, directing power behind the recent outbreak, and Leon Trotzky, a former New York reporter and leader of the uprising. Both men have assumed the names they now bear. In Petrograd they made the first attempt to organize the forces opposed to Kerensky. Here are the two leaders at a mass meeting in the streets of the Russian capital, Trotzky addressing the throng and Lenine standing behind him on the platform. The government which these men lead is now threatened, according to recent advices.

Friend Suggests Possible Explanation for Affection Displayed by Squirrel for Farmer.

J. Monroe Fitch, former representative in the lower house of the Indiana general assembly, who is by way of being one of the big farm owners of Delaware county, in showing a company of friends over his big stock farm near Yorktown, relates the Indianapolis News, called special attention to the fact that a number of pet squirrels lived in the trees near the tenant house that were so tame they treated those about the farm as affectionately as though they (the squirrels) were kittens.

"Why there's one fox squirrel among 'em," Fitch told his visitors, "that's so tame he runs to meet me and climbs on my shoulder whenever he notices me come in the gate. If that doesn't prove that even wild animals have affection and sense, what does it prove, I'd like to know?"

"Well, since you've asked the question," said one of his visitors, ever so kindly, "it might prove that he thinks you're a nut."

SAD VERSES BY WOMAN POET

India's New Woman Writer Lays Bare Her Loneliness in Unusually Beautiful Poems.

How would you like to have the pleasant little game of Anangomohini Barnam, to be the daughter of his highness the late Maharaja Birchanda Manike Bahadur of Tipperah and to marry a man by the name of late Prime Minister Gopik Ushira Deb Barnam?

This is the young poetess in India. She is one of the proteges of Tagore, and her poems have been ranked very high. That a purdah woman should express herself as freely and completely as Anangomohini is a rare thing.

Her poems are all sad and full of such thoughts as these when she says: "In the silent garden of my heart," "In the lonesome hour of my silent soul," or "In the silent sky of my being." But her poems are beautiful in this sadness and lay bare all too well the loneliness which must be a woman's who in her country really thinks and really feels.—Exchange

Many welcome this opportunity of commemorating the brilliant services of the Irish regiments during the war.

Evolution of the Wheel.

Naturally, there was a first man to eat an oyster, and there must have been some heroic pioneer to tackle every edible article that is known to civilization today. High authority has bestowed eulogy on the man who invented the wheel, and some have gone so far as to assert that this unidentified genius was the greatest benefactor of the race, but we may doubt if the wheel was really an invention. It seems more likely to have been a gradual discovery, the result of a slow, evolutionary process for which no man or group of men could claim the credit.—Exchange.

HOME-GROWN SEED IS THE SUREST AND BEST SELECT SEED CORN

ENOUGH FOR TWO YEARS

For 1918 Plantings and to Insure Adapted Seed for 1919

WHERE?

In the field from standing stalks of a variety that has "made good" and become locally adapted.

HOW?

Pick best ears from plants showing best yields in fair competition with neighboring plants. Storm-proof plants with hanging ears give best seed. Long ears with large, uniform kernels are the best. Avoid sappy ears heavy with water.

WHEN?

As soon as ears are ripe and hard—before heavy frosts or autumn rains injure the kernels for seed. The day the ears are selected they should be hung where they will become thoroughly dry in a few days.

WHY?

It pays. Field selection of seed corn is one of the surest and best paying operations on the farm. Proper care of seed corn pays well. Test: show that properly cared for seed corn has yielded eighteen bushels more per acre than crib-stored seed from the same field.

HOUSING DAIRY CATTLE

It is not necessary to build elaborately or to use the most expensive materials in order to satisfactorily house dairy cattle, in the opinion of the author of Circular No. 190, of the Illinois Experiment Station, at Urbana, Ill. "It is essential that the roof be waterproof, the sides wind-proof, and the stable floor durable and sanitary." An adequate means of ventilation is also an essential.

bag is placed over this hoop, and the outside hoop is placed over it, writes C. J. Lynde in Farmers Mail and Breeze. By screwing up the nut on the bolt of the outside band the bag is held firmly in place.

GOOD WORK OF INOCULATION

That Legumes Are Benefited Is Shown by Several Experiment Stations—Increases Growth.

Farmers sometimes question the advisability of inoculating legumes. That legumes are benefited by inoculation has been shown by several experiment stations. The Wisconsin, Illinois and other stations have shown that inoculation gives decidedly beneficial results.

In the first place, inoculation increases the total growth of the plant, giving greater yields of hay. In most test cases the hay crop has been increased about 20 per cent and in some instances it has been doubled. Not only is more hay produced, but the hay is richer in protein and consequently of higher feeding value, according to W. A. Albrecht of the University of Missouri college of agriculture. Cowpea hay from plants, inoculated at the Illinois station, contained 26 per cent protein while plants not treated carried but 15 1/2 per cent of this valuable food constituent. Inoculation enables the plant to get nitrogen from the air in addition to that from the soil. This not only conserves the supply, but when the crop is turned under it increases the nitrogen content of the soil.

Inoculation, then, is beneficial because it increases the yield and improves the quality of hay and enriches the soil through the nitrogen of the air. These benefits justify the expense and trouble of inoculation.

RYE SEEDS AS COVER CROP

Planted in Cornfields It Frequently Can Be Utilized as Late Fall or Spring Pasture.

Rye seeded as a cover crop in cornfields can frequently be utilized for late fall and early spring pasture, or can be allowed to mature and be hogged down with satisfactory results.

At the last cultivation of corn, rye can be seeded at the rate of six to eight pecks per acre. It will furnish nutritious pasturage by fall in favorable seasons. In the spring the crop may be used for pasture or plowing under, or hogs may be turned into the field after the grain is ripe.

Six pigs averaging 44 pounds in weight were fed on a quarter of an acre of rye for 40 days at the Ohio experiment station. During this time they made an average daily gain of half a pound. While hogging down the rye the pigs were fed a fifth of a pound of tankage apiece daily.

Rye as a general rule cannot compete with corn for hogging down, according to specialists at the experiment station. It may be substituted economically for corn when it is difficult to harvest and thresh and when its price per pound is about the same as that of corn.

GOOD ATTENTION TO HORSES

Animal Readily Responds to Real Horsemanship—Supply Cool, Fresh Air and Sunlight.

The necessity for efficiency in horse power calls for the proper care of the farm work horse, especially during the summer months.

The horse readily responds to real horsemanship. The right kind of horsemanship includes a comfortable stable, good grooming, kindness, attention to the teeth and feet and proper feed.

Some of the best cared-for horses are found in an inconspicuous stable. The horse appreciates a comfortable stall. A desirable horse stable has plenty of windows to admit cool, fresh air and sunlight.

While it has been confidently asserted for many years that "Dolly" Madison, wife of the president of the United States, invented ice cream, the truth of the matter is that this delicacy was introduced to the English aristocracy of the eighteenth century by a London confectioner named Gantner, who may or may not have been his inventor.

PUREBREDS MUST BE MARKED

Breeder Must Be Absolutely Certain of Pedigrees, as Uncertainty Makes Them Worthless.

The purebred breeder's newcomers must be marked in some way, as any uncertainty will make their pedigrees worthless as purebreds. The breeder must be absolutely certain in the pedigrees he writes. Many of the systems for marking seem complicated and hard to remember. I have been using a system that has proven very satisfactory to me, writes C. A. Steele of Clarke county, Ohio, in Ohio Farmer.

I stand behind the animal and make four notches on the outside of each ear. The count is made from the base of the left ear—at the base 1, the next 2, near the point 3, point 4; then over to the point of the right ear, 5, then 6-7-8. A notch in each ear is 9. A notch at the base inside the left ear is 10, the next 20 and 30. Inside near the point of the right ear is 40, then 50 and 60; in this way you number up to 69. I label these notches with a label punch.

Then you can cut V-shaped notches with a knife. I commence at 70 and go on up to 129 (see illustration), which would be high enough for most herds or flocks. If any one should want to go higher it would be an easy matter to make a different kind of notch to do this.

At breeding time I mark my breeding ewes on the back with a figure to show which ram they are bred to. Then when they lamb I have all that is required to write out a pedigree. This I put in a small note book that I carry with me or leave in the barn. Also if a lamb should become separated from its mother I can easily find her. I transfer these notes to another book from time to time so in case either should be lost I would still have a record. My note book gives the following information: Date of birth, number of ewe, sire, ram or ewe lamb, cut mark, remarks.

TREATMENT FOR AILING PIGS

Breaking Out of Body Caused by Narrow Ration High in Protein Can Be Remedied.

When pigs are fed on a very narrow ration with a high content of protein and a limited amount of energy and fat-forming material, they are subject to a breaking out of the body which causes considerable irritation. This has been noticed when pigs are turned on a pasture very rich in protein, especially when the pigs had previously been on a feed that was lacking in this content. These pigs will unquestionably improve if you will feed a mixture of 12 parts of cornmeal, two parts of shorts and one part of oil meal along with the separated milk. Spray these pigs again with light crude oil and apply over the worst spots of the body a mixture of three parts of unsalted tallow and one part of tallow of sulphur.

FEEDING ROUGHAGE TO EWES

Animals Consume Large Quantities of Bulky Feed and Need Comparatively Little Grain.

Breeding ewes consume comparatively large quantities of roughage and need but little grain. Of this roughage corn stover and oat straw may well form an important and economical part, but they should be supplemented by other feeds containing more protein. Sheep will eat about 25 to 35 per cent of the total weight of the stover, leaving the stalks. Wheat straw is not so valuable for sheep feeding as oat straw, while rye straw has practically no value in sheep rations.

AFTER A CHOLERA EPIDEMIC

Make Liberal Application of Whitewash and Disinfectants About Hog House and Yards.

Whitewash and disinfectants must be used freely about the hog house and yards after an outbreak of cholera. If the cleaning and disinfecting is carefully done we may be able to stack up again within a few weeks after the hogs have stopped dying and suffer no further loss but it is usually best to wait two or three months before we do this, or depend on the hogs that have survived for a fresh start.

NATURE GOOD TO MARYLAND

Fruit, Game, Grain, Nuts, Beautiful Streams Found in Abundance in Favored Section.

The squirrels are "cutting hickory" and incidentally raiding the fields of ripe corn; persimmon trees are heavy with green fruit that gives promise of much luscious sweetness after the first hard frost; early flocks of ducks are winging over the coves and creeks where the wild celery upon which they feed is thick and long; and in the marshes the wild bats are dropping their ripe grain faster than the ortolans and reed birds can gather it, according to Nixsah. All these are signs that autumn is coming in tide-water Maryland.

One must not forget either, that oysters are almost prime and the fishermen are gathering them by the boatload, and that the sea trout are running and watermelons are ripe. Truly this region is friendly to man in its abundance of things that are good to eat. No wonder that the Indians loved the country, and that some of the first white men who came to America made it their home.

It is not a land of striking beauty, but one nevertheless pleasing to the eye. Slow-moving creeks spread into broad covers as they meet the wide green rivers; low hills heavily timbered roll back toward the rich uplands of grain field and orchard. Here and there on a commanding hilltop stands a graceful mansion with high pillared verandas and wide lawns—a leftover bit of colonial America.

MARRIAGES

Ashby--Miles.

Whit S. Ashby, of Slaughterville, and Miss Mary Miles, daughter of Mr. Allie Miles and grand-daughter of Mr. J. A. Miles, were united in marriage Friday afternoon by Rev. H. E. Gabby. The ceremony was performed at the residence of the officiating minister. Mr. Ashby is in the federal service and stationed at Camp Shelby, Miss. Early after the war was declared, and while on duty guarding a bridge in the Purchase, he met Miss Miles. Their acquaintance developed into a love affair which culminated in matrimony. Mr. Ashby is here on a short furlough and when he returns to his command his bride will either accompany him there or go to Slaughterville to reside with the groom's mother.

Moore--McPherson.

The marriage of Miss Louise Young McPherson, of Madisonville, and John Atkinson Moore, of Earlington, will be solemnized at the First Christian church at Madisonville to-morrow evening at 9 o'clock.

Miss McPherson is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. McPherson, and is one of the most attractive young women in Western Kentucky. Mr. Moore is the son of Paul M. Moore, of Earlington, and a grandson of the late John B. Atkinson. At present he is stationed at Fort Benham Harrison in the officers' Reserve Training Corps.

Everett--Rutland.

A marriage license was issued yesterday to D. J. Everett and Miss Aner Maude Rutland, both of Fairview. They were married later by Rev. T. L. Hulse.

BUSINESS OPPORTUNITY.

I have a client that has a splendid mercantile business for sale. He is doing on an average about $8,000 per annum. Has post office in connection with store; also farm of 53 acres in high state of cultivation; splendid house, stock barn, tobacco barn and all other necessary improvements. This is situated 1-2 mile from school and church on pike in splendid neighborhood.

One of the best combined business propositions I know of. A good business man can easily clear on the store alone $10,000 a year. The present owner is compelled to sell on account of other business interests he has.

If you are interested in a proposition like this, write or phone

DEATH CLAIMS

MRS. H. MAJOR

Good Lady Goes to Her Reward After Long Illness.

Mrs. Jennie Major, wife of Mr. Howard Major, Sr., of near Beverly, died at 2 o'clock last Saturday afternoon. Her health had been declining for some time, but not until about three months ago did her condition become serious.

Mrs. Major was a daughter of the late George W. Cayce and was 70 years old. She was a universally loved christian lady and had been a member of the Christian church for many years. Eight children, six sons and two daughters, survive.

Her funeral services were held at Liberty church Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock, conducted by Rev. J. T. Hawkins, pastor, and the interment took place in the Major burying ground near Beverly.

Optimistic Thought.

If a principle is good for anything it is worth living up to.

"Potter's Field." "Potter's field," the graveyard in which are buried those who are interred at public expense, comes by its name legitimately. In England and the continent the clay used to make pottery was dug up in long trenches, which were left unfilled. Common consent soon made it possible for these unsightly stretches of ground to be put to the useful purpose of interring the bodies of those who were cared for as a charge upon the country.

A Healthy Spot.

Lisvane must be a healthy spot. Within a small radius there are residing in the pretty Cardiff suburb seven people whose aggregate ages total 569 years.
